

Announcement
XIIIth International Conference of Young Scientists in mathematics, physics, computer sciences, engineering, environmental sciences and life sciences
Stuttgart, Germany, 18th to 23rd of April 2006

The conference is organized by the Heidehof Stiftung, Stuttgart. Secondary school students are invited to present results of their own projects related to the scientific fields as mentioned above. The presentations will be judged by an international jury.

The admitted number of students, presentations and team leaders of any national team and also the maximum time of a presentation have been changed compared to former Conferences. Please notice the new regulations at http://metal.elte.hu/~icys/reg_stat/ICYS_Regulations.html

Information on several deadlines are outlined below. Until the 1st of February only 1 team per country is admitted. Countries who want to send more than one team may inform the Local Organization Committee (LOC).

31st of December 2005: Deadline of preliminary registration. Names of team leaders and number of students should be announced by online-registration on the LOC-Website (<http://ICYS.heidehof-stiftung.de>). If a country wants to send more than 1 team they can ask for it.

15th of February 2006: the countries which want to send more than 1 team will be informed on the number of students that will be accepted.

1st of March: registration of all teams is completed.

15th of March: pre-payment deadline. The participation-fee* of 50 € / person or rather half of the fee (only in accordance with the LOC) should be transferred by this deadline. The names of the students and the abstracts of their presentations (in English; maximum one typed A4 size page; as a Word or text file) should be also sent to the LOC.
